FIERCE FIRES RAGE AS AMERICA SWELTERS IN TROPIC HEAT GENERAL WAR DEBT DEFAULT

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

POSSIBLE RESULT OF ROOSEVELT NOTE

BRITAIN EXPECTED TO MAKE
TOKEN PAYMENT

OFFICIAL OFFER THIS WEEK-END.

With the approach of June 15, settling day for war debt instalments, world interest is again centring on the debt impasse.

Far from indicating any solution to the problem, President Roosevelt's long-awaited enunciation of America's policy, issued on Friday, has left the situation much as it was before, in the opinion of observers in London and Washington. It is even thought in certain quarters that the message will cause a general default on June 15.

Despite the near approach of settling day, no nation has yet given an indication of the course it is likely to pursue, but circles close to the problem in Washington hold an opinion that Great Britain will again make a token payment. London newspapers state that a British note offering a token payment will be sent to Washington during the week-end.

PRESIDENT DOES NOT HELP.

Lead Expected in Britain.

KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT

Washington, Yesterday.
The war debts position is summed in the "New York Times" which declares that President Roosevelt's message leaves everything much as it was before. The President is unable to indicate a single step that might lead from the muddle of opinion.

It is expressed in British press circles here that the message will cause a general default on June 15.

An American official in close touch with the past British conversations, however, said that a substantial token payment might still be expected from Great Britain as a concession to the considerable body of British opinion which believes in honouring Government obligations as fully as possible.

VIEW SUPPORTED

Diplomatic circles generally support this view.

It is thought that President Roosevelt will accept a token payment without mentioning the question of default.

Mr. William Phillips, Under-Secretary of State, said that, so far, no intimation of the probable course of action which may be taken by any of the debtors had been received.

DISCUSSIONS GRANTED

Washington, Yesterday.
President Roosevelt's long-awaited war debt message was sent to Congress yesterday. It declares that legislation during the present session is neither necessary nor desirable.

"We are using every means to persuade debtors of the sacredness of obligations and to assure them of our willingness to discuss, frankly and fully, the special cir-

AMERICA AGREE TO 1935 NAVAL CONFERENCE IN LONDON

No Objection To Be Raised If Invitation to U.S. Is Extended

Washington, Yesterday.
It is understood that, both diplomatic and naval heads have decided to agree to the holding of the 1935 Naval Conference in London. The American Ambassador to London, Mr. Robert W. Bingham, has received instructions not to object if the British Government extends an invitation to America.

KING'S BIRTHDAY TO-DAY

Local Observance
To-morrow.

SILVER JUBILEE NEXT YEAR

His Majesty King George V. to-day celebrates his 69th birthday. In every corner of the British Empire flags will be flown and expressions of loyalty will be sent to London. Owing to the Royal Birthday falling on Sunday, public celebrations will be held to-morrow.

In Hong Kong the usual general holiday will be observed with the Birthday Parade at the Cenotaph as the principal feature of the day. More than 1,000 guests will attend the reception at Government House at night.

IMPORTANT EPOCH

His Majesty's 70th year marks an important epoch in his reign, and preparations are already being made for the magnificent celebration in London, next May, of the King's Silver Jubilee, the 25th anniversary for His Majesty's Accession to the Throne.

Fittingly, this anniversary of his coming to the Throne will occur at a time when his Empire, led by the Motherland, is showing the rest of the world the way back to peace and prosperity.

Incidents.

JAPAN TO TAKE A HAND

Harbin, Yesterday.
It is reported that the so-called Manchukuo Government has decided to discontinue handling over protests to the Soviet Consul-General here, as no replies have been received.

It is stated that the Japanese foreign ministry has agreed to present joint protests through the Japanese Ambassador in Moscow, who was the first to protest most strongly against the recent incidents in Amur, in which Soviet troops are alleged to have fired on the so-called Manchukuo Vessels.

Prince Chichibu Leaves As Japanese Envoy To Manchukuo

Tokyo, Yesterday.
A distinguished gathering, including a number of Princes and Princesses, Cabinet Ministers and other high officials were present to say farewell to H.I.H. Prince Chichibu at Tokyo station to-day when he left at 6.40 p.m. for Changchun as the Imperial Envoy to tender congratulations to Emperor Kang Teh on his accession to the throne of Manchukuo.

With a suite including Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, Lieut-General Kenkichi Ueda, Vice-Chief of the General Staff, and others, Prince Chichibu will board the Japanese cruiser, Ashigara, to-morrow, at Moji, and will arrive at Dairen on Wednesday. He will have an audience at Changchun on Thursday.

The apt name behind the new craft is that it can be loaded with explosives, brought unseen to its target and blown up. It means certain death for the one-man crew.

INVESTIGATING POSSIBILITIES

Foochow, Yesterday.
The Viceroy of Formosa is now making schemes of immigration of Japanese into Fukien province.

Since May 20, Japanese policemen have been sent out by the local Japanese Consul daily to investigate the number of Formosa natives domiciled in Foochow, and their vocation. A report will be made later and submitted to the Viceroy of Formosa as a basis of the scheme of immigration.

The Japanese Consul in Foochow has also formed a party of his subordinate officials to tour the different districts of Fukien and to investigate economic and social conditions. The Fukien provincial authorities have been requested to give them accommodation.

MORE SOLIDARITY NEEDED

Lyons, Yesterday.
The International Silk Federation, comprising 40 delegates representing the silk producing nations of Europe, to-day discussed Asiatic competition and agreed that further solidarity was needed between nations with approximately similar conditions of labour.

The Federation decided to initiate research methods in defence against Asiatic productions, notably by developing the consumption of raw silk produced in Europe.

Cook Discovers Missile

WELL-INFORMED PARTY

Shanghai, Yesterday.
Chinese reports state that a bomb was found by a cook this morning near the back-door of General Huang Fu's residence in the French Concession.

It was examined by French police who found that it was manufactured years ago in Shantung, and had lost its explosive power.

The theory is that it was apparently placed where it was found because General Huang Fu, in order to avoid newspapermen who are constantly on his trail, enters and leaves his residence by the back-door.

CORNFIELD BURSTS

HEAVY SNOWSTORM IN MONTANA

NEW YORK, YESTERDAY.
SERIOUS FIRES HAVE AGGRAVATED THE THREATENING SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES RESULTING FROM THE DROUGHT.

More than 2,500 people are fighting a tremendous blaze in the woods at Maine, where there are many holiday resorts. So far 25 houses have been destroyed.

Six fires were started by lightning during a thunder storm at St. Louis, Missouri.

A cornfield at Plainfield, Illinois, literally burst into flames, while a temperature of 124 degrees in the shade has been recorded at Joliet, Illinois.

A striking contrast to this was provided by a sudden snowstorm at Butte, Montana, which disorganised the city's traffic.

Mr. Herbert H. Lehman, Governor of New York State, has closed all the forests throughout the State until the fire peril has passed.

Hordes of grasshoppers, aided by the scorching sun, are ravaging thousands of acres of prairie land along a 2,000-mile front in Manitoba, according to report from Winnipeg.—Reuter.

SENATOR'S SAVING SCHEME

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 2, 8.27 a.m.)

Washington, Yesterday.
Senator Henry F. Ashurst, author of a pending bill authorising the United States Government to purchase U.S.$200,000,000 worth of copper, lead and zinc, predicted that the passage of the Bill would permit the saving of U.S.$300,000,000 in national defence expenditures.

He said that the United States, at present had surplus stocks of metals sufficient for 22 months, even if all production was suspended.

"If the Government buy metal now and store it for Army and Navy purposes, it would have stocks for years and make a great saving in view of the present low price," he declared.—United Press per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

GERMAN DEBT MORATORIUM

Young And Dawes Loans
May Be Included.

GOLD BACKING DECLINES

Berlin, Yesterday.

The likelihood of the moratorium on German debts transfers including the Young and Dawes loans, appears to be increased by a further fall in the Reichsbank gold coverage to 3.7, as compared with 4.6 last week.

Whereas the bank note circulation increased by 271,000,000 marks to 3,635,000,000 marks, and are now under 136,000,000 marks.

The loss is attributed to payments for imports.

A further decrease is expected during the month for debt service.

CORONER'S INQUEST

By MARC CONNELLY

"WHAT is your name?"
"Frank Wineguard."
"Where do you live?"
"A hundred and eighty-five West Fifty-fifth-street."
"What is your business?"
"I'm stage manager for Hullo America."

"You were the employer of James Dawle?"
"In a way. We both worked for Mr. Bender, the producer, but I have charge backstage."
"Did you know Theodore Robel?"
"Yes, sir."
"Was he in your company, too?"
"No, sir. I met him when we started rehearsals. That was about three months ago. In June. We sent out a call for midgets and he and Jimmy showed up together, with a lot of others. Robel was too big for us. I didn't see him again until we broke into their room
Tuesday."

"You discovered their bodies?"
"Yes, sir. Mrs. Pike, there, was with me."
"You found them both dead?"
"Yes, sir."
"How did your happen to be over
in Jersey City?"
"Well, I called up his house at certain time Monday night when I found Jimmy hadn't shown up for the performance. Mrs. Pike told me they were both out, and I asked her to have either Jimmy or Robel call me when they came in. Then Mrs.
Pike called me Tuesday morning and said she tried to get into the room but she'd found the door was bolted. She said all her other roomers were out and she was alone and scared."

"I'd kind of suspected something might be wrong. So I said to wait and I'd come over. Then I took the tube over and got there about noon. Then we went up and I broke down the door."
"Did you see this knife then?"
"Yes, sir. It was on the floor, about a foot from Jimmy."
"You say you suspected something was wrong. What do you mean by that?"

"I mean I felt something might have happened to Jimmy. Nothing like this, of course. But I knew he'd been feeling very depressed lately, and I knew Robel wasn't helping to cheer him up any."
"You mean that they had had quarrels?"
"No, sir. They just both had the blues. Robel had had them for a long time. Robel was Jimmy's brother-in-law. He'd married Jimmy's sister—she was a midget, too
—about five years ago, but she died a year or so later. Jimmy had been living with them and after the sister died he and Robel took a room in Mrs. Pike's house together."

"How did you learn this?"
"Jimmy and I were pretty friendly at the theatre. He was a nice little fellow and seemed grateful that I'd given him his job. We'd only needed one midget for an Oriental scene in the second act and the agencies had sent about fifteen. Mr. Gehring, the director, told me to pick one of them as he was busy and I picked Jimmy because he was the littlest."

"After I got to know him he told me how glad he was I'd given him
the job. He hadn't worked for nearly a year. He wasn't little enough to be a featured midget with circuses or in museums, so he had to take whatever came along.
Anyway, we got to be friendly and he used to tell me about his brother-in-law and all."

"He never suggested that there might be ill-feeling between him and his brother-in-law?"
"No, sir. I don't imagine he'd over had any words at all with Robel. As a matter of fact, from what I could gather I guess Jimmy had quite a lot of affection for him and he certainly did everything he could to help him. Robel was a lot worse off than Jimmy. Robel hadn't worked for a couple of years and Jimmy practically supported him. He used to tell me how Robel had been sunk over since he got his late growth."

"His what?"
"His late growth. I heard it happens among midgets often, but Jimmy told me about it first.
Usually a midget will stay as long as he lives at whatever height he reaches when he's fourteen or fifteen, but every now and then one of them starts growing again just before he's thirty, and he can grow a foot or even more in a couple of years. Then he stops growing for good. But of course he don't look so much like a midget any more.

"That's what had happened to Robel about three years ago. Of course he had trouble getting jobs and it hit him pretty hard."
"From what Jimmy told me and from what Mrs. Pike says, I guess he used to talk about it all the time. Robel used to come over and see his agent in New York twice a week, but there was never anything for him. Then he'd go back to Jersey City. Most of the week he lived alone because after the show started Jimmy often stayed in New York with a cousin or somebody that lived uptown."

"Lately Robel hadn't been coming over to New York at all. But every Saturday night Jimmy would go over to Jersey City and stay till Monday with him, trying to cheer him up. Every Sunday they'd take a walk and go to a movie. I guess as they walked along the street
Robel realised most the difference in their heights. And I guess that's really why they're both dead now."

"How do you mean?"
"Well, as I told you, Jimmy would try to sympathise with Robel and cheer him up. He and Robel both realised that Jimmy was working and supporting them and that Jimmy would probably keep right on working, according to the ordinary breaks of the game, while Robel would always be too big. It simply preyed on Robel's mind."

"And then three weeks ago Monday Jimmy thought he saw the axe fall."
"I was standing outside the stage door—it was about seven-thirty—and Jimmy came down the alley.
He looked down in the mouth, which I thought was strange seeing that he usually used to come in swinging his little cane and looking pretty cheerful. I said, 'How are you feeling, Jimmy?' and he said, 'I don't feel so good, Mr. Wineguard.'
So I said, 'Why, what's the matter, Jimmy?' I could see there really was something the matter with him
by this time."

"I'm getting scared," he said,
and I says, 'Why?'"
"I'm starting to grow again," he says. He said it the way you just found out you had some disease that was going to kill you in a week.
He looked like he was shivering."

"Why, you're crazy, Jimmy," I says. "You ain't growing."
"Yes, I am," he says. "I'm thirty-one and it's that late growth like my brother-in-law has. My father had it, but his people had money, so it didn't make much difference to him. It's different with me. I've got to keep working."

"He went on like that for a while and then I tried to kid him out of it."

"You look all right to me," I said. "How tall have you been all along?"

"Thirty-seven inches," he says.
So I says, 'Come on into the prop-room and I'll measure you.'
"He backed away from me. 'No,' he says, 'I don't want to know how much it is.' Then he went up to the dressing-room before I could argue with him."
"All week he looked awful sunk.
When he showed up the next Monday evening he looked almost white."

"I grabbed him as he was starting upstairs to make up."

Quick Change Fashions

Mannequins Reveal New Trend.

There is fun in the new fashions. An audience of women laughed with delighted amusement at an important dress show in which the mannequins performed astonishing quick-change tricks.

They demonstrated that it is possible to leave home in one ensemble and return in an entirely different one.

Down the mannequin stage walked a charming figure, in, eh, but oh so quiet, little suit. She unbuttoned a bow, and undid three buttons, and emerged in six seconds from the chrysalis of the quiet little suit into the butterfly brilliance of a silk patterned gown.

Thicken Your Hair

To make poor, unhealthy hair grow strong and curly, get the hair cut very closely and each week when washing the hair use just plain velvet soap and a strong nail brush and scrub the hair briskly in all directions, up, down and crosswise. In a month or two the hair will be thick and healthy and curly.

Antiseptic Shampoo After Hair-Cut.

Give your head a thorough shampooing with a mildly antiseptic soap as soon as you return from a visit to the barber's saloon whether you went for a shave or a shingle or a hair cut. Only in this way can you be sure of steering clear of infection from strange combs and brushes.

Lacquered Silk Necklaces

Add Attraction To Ensemble.

Glass Buttons In Summer Flocks.

Glass buttons destined for summer flocks are made in up-standing shapes, rarely circular or flat. One interesting design seen in all the newest colourings in vogue this season consists of two layers, one placed above the other. The lower is a circle of clear coloured glass, the upper layer a cut off circle in opaque glass inset with a raised design. Buttons of this order give an up-to-date look to a dress.

GEORGE ARLISS RETURNS HOME Stars Of Distinction Gather In London The Triumph Of "Disraeli"

(By SETON MARGRAVE)

THERE is no one who has more completely won the affection and esteem of the entire film world than Mr. George Arliss, who had arrived in London from Hollywood to play in his first British talking picture.

The fact that Mr. Arliss has decided to work in London is of very great importance. He joins a distinguished company of players who have recognised the increasing ascendancy of London as a centre of talking-picture production.

Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, Mr. Charles Laughton, Mr. Maurice Chevalier, Mr. Leslie Howard, Mr. Herbert Marshall, and Mr. George Arliss will all work in London this year.

I doubt whether it would be possible to name any other six stars of greater distinction.

In Mr. Fairbanks we have the star who rendered the greatest individual service to silent films in Hollywood.

In Mr. Arliss we shall have the star who has rendered the greatest individual service to talking pictures in Hollywood.

Those of you who can carry your film memories five years back will recall that "Disraeli" was regarded by the film world as a whole as a magnificent but misguided gesture. The people who make and market talking pictures were willing to admit that "Disraeli" was a great film, but they were equally emphatic in saying that "Disraeli" was over the heads of filmgoers.

The thing, they said, was in advance of its time. It was history, and everybody knew that history was unchangeable. In any case, they asked, who in Kalamazoo ever heard of Disraeli?

To-day "The House of Rothschild" is acclaimed in America as one of the greatest films ever made. Nobody is saying it is over the heads of filmgoers, or that it is in advance of its time, or that it is history, or that Kalamazoo never heard of Rothschild.

That is what Mr. Arliss has meant to Hollywood. He has raised the talking picture from the depths of sob-stuff and sex-stuff to heights of dignity it would not otherwise have attained.

It seems a first-class blunder on the part of Hollywood to let such an actor go and equally it is first-class business on the part of Gaumont British to have secured him. We are glad to have him.

London-Born Actor.

After all, Mr. Arliss is merely coming home.

He was born in London 66 years ago and he had achieved distinction on the London stage before he left it to go to America 33 years ago.

Mr. Arliss is the son of William Arliss-Andrews, who was a printer and publisher, and who hoped his son would follow his profession.

The son of Mr. Arliss-Andrews, however, had acting in his blood and followed his star to such purpose that he made his first appearance on the stage of the Elephant and Castle as the Jailer in "Vidocq" and the French Jonathan Wild, when he was eighteen.

Then, like all young actors of his day, he played many parts in London and outside it.

After fourteen years, he made his first real success in the part of Keene in "Mr. and Mrs. Daventry," at the Royalty Theatre when he was playing with Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

A year later he went to New York with Mrs. Patrick Campbell in "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and remained to appear in such famous plays as "The Darling of the Gods," "Becky Sharp," "Leah Klenchka," and "Hedda Gabler," until he appeared at Montreal in 1911 in the title part of the play, "Disraeli," by Mr. Louis N. Parker. It was nearly five years before he required another part. "Disraeli" was a tremendous success. It consolidated Mr. Arliss as one of the great figures of the American stage.

His next phenomenal success was "The Green Goddess," which ran for nearly four years and brought Mr. Arliss back to London after an absence of twenty-two years, when he appeared at the St. James's Theatre in 1923. In the following year he returned to America to play for three years in "Old English," and two years in "The Merchant of Venice." Many experienced playgoers think his Shylock one of the greatest performances ever seen on the stage.

Of these and other things you may read in his own life story, which he published in 1927 under the title, "Up the Years From Bloomsbury."

Mr. Arliss first went to Hollywood in 1920 in the days of the silent film, but it was not until talking pictures were able to reproduce his marvellous voice that he became a vital force in the film world.

An Amazing Achievement.

"Disraeli," "The Green Goddess," "Old English," "Alexander Hamilton," "The Silent Voice," "The Working Man," and now "The House of Rothschild" make the most brilliant series of talking pictures standing in the name of any one actor.

That is an amazing achievement. And yet, it is easy to explain.

When he made "Disraeli," Mr. Arliss brought to the talking-picture world forty years of invaluable experience on the stage.

He had been in daily contact with the public of Britain and America. He had learned that what the public wants is a sincere presentation of a clean story. In following this ideal he had not only adorned the drama but he had also achieved extraordinary success.

Surely it is of tremendous significance that an actor of his ability, experience, and success should make it an absolute condition of working that no innuendo or ineligence shall appear in any of his films.

THE PUNTER'S VERSION
Once bet twice shy.

UNANIMOUS

A policeman knocked out two armed bandits with his truncheon. Both gunmen agree that he's a jolly good fellow.

OVERHEARD

"Hi! You mustn't swim in this reservoir."
"I'm not swimming; I'm drowning."

A BIT THICK

A woman, whose husband poured coffee over her, applied for separation. The grounds, of course, are obvious.

BEAUTY HINTS CORNER

Sunburn is to be fashionable again this year. Gentlemen, of course, prefer bronze.

Henry (at the picnic): "Is that man a friend of yours, Dulcie?"

Dulcie (shyly): "Yes."

Henry: "I think I'll ask him to join us."

Dulcie: "Oh, Henry this is so sudden."

Henry: "Why so sudden?"

Dulcie: "Why—why—ho's our minister."

Clive: "He and his wife never drink anything but whisky and water."

Dave: "But I thought she was T.T."

Clive: "She is. She drinks the water."

Jones: "He's an efficiency expert."

Bones: "What on earth's that?"

Jones: "The sort of man who doesn't enjoy a sea voyage because of the salt that's going to waste."

CONSIDER OTHERS

A doctor says that a crying baby will probably grow up to be a crooner. Once this gets about a crying baby will never be allowed to grow up at all. I should hope.

THE VERY IDEA!

"South American monkeys never want a bath," states a zoologist. Surely the man who fitted my bathroom geyser doesn't mistake me for a South American monkey?

I read that seat slinging was invented by accident. Thing like that isn't an accident: it's a calamity.

HOLIDAY NOTE

"One can't see scenery on a sea voyage," declares a motorist. Well, Jonah certainly didn't.

FIRST AUSTRALIAN FLEET BIBLE

Found In Melbourne
Pawnshop

PUBLISHED IN 1775

Sydney, N. S. W.

A Bible which is believed to have come to Australia with the first fleet is now in the possession of the British and Foreign Bible Society, Sydney.

Published in 1775, it bears on its fly-leaf the name of "Captain John Hunter," who was commander of the "Sirius," Flagship of the first fleet.

The book which was found in a pawnshop in Melbourne will be placed in a library, shortly to be added to Bible House. The library will contain about 1,000 historic Bibles and it is hoped to arrange for Prince George to open it.

Among relics at Bible House are two Bibles published in 1686 and 1611 respectively (the last named being one of the original authorised versions).

The Bible used by Rev. Richard Johnson at the first Christian service on Australian soil is now at St. Philip's Church, Sydney.

The total number of scriptures (Bibles and Testaments) issued in New South Wales by the British and Foreign Bible Society since its inception in 1817, under the patronage of Governor Macquarie, is 2,438,575.—Reuter.

POLICE SEIZE 49,000 HEROIN PILLS.

Heavy Fine On Woman.

Wong Ho, a woman, was fined $2,500, in default 12 months' hard labour, by Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for being in possession of 49,000 heroin pills at No. 12, Cleverly Street on Friday.

A man named Lee Weng was also charged with the woman, but owing to insufficient evidence he was discharged by the magistrate.

George Arliss Returns Home.

In his work, Mr. Arliss has the aspect of the evangelist, and I am certain that no one can become really great in the film world without it.

I have spoken of this belief to many producers and have generally been treated with great scorn, but I am still convinced that the true purpose of the film is to present emotional beauty.

Such beauty may be presented in many ways—in delicious comedy like "The Working Man" as well as in spiritual drama like "The Silent Voice." The substance and the setting are unimportant compared with the dignity and the decency on which Mr. Arliss insists.

He occupies a great place in the film world because he has demonstrated that fine acting, fine feeling, and fine English make a triumphantly successful combination even in the rough and tumble of the film world.

In abiding by his ideals he is utterly sincere. He told me once that the most urgent need of the theatre is the restoration of decency to drama. He had been to see some new plays in London and he was immeasurably shocked by the licence of their language.

The result of his loyalty to his ideals is that to-day he has the most loyal following of any living film star. Cinema owners everywhere tell me that his name is the only one in the entire film world which is a constant guarantee of good business. All the others at one time or another have slipped. Mr. Arliss is alone in retaining the complete confidence of film-goers.

For these reasons Mr. Arliss is welcome in London beyond almost any other star one could name.

WHAT BRITISH ANALYST SAYS 'ASPRO'

Eminent Analyst's Report

56a, Great Dover St., LONDON, S.E.1.

31st October, 1924.

I have, during the past few months, made an exhaustive examination of a number of the best-known brands of Aspirin Tablets, and have, at the request of Nicholas Pty. Ltd., made a careful examination of "ASPRO." As a result of these examinations, I have to report, after 10 individual tests, I find that no single Tablet of "ASPRO" contains any trace of free Salicylic Acid.

I find the weight of the Tablets very uniform, and that they have been made by some process which, contrary to the general practice, does not cause decomposition and consequent liberation for free Salicylic Acid. All other processes of Aspirin Tablet manufacture with which I am acquainted turn out Tablets which are liable to contain, and do frequently contain, free Salicylic Acid.

Non-Toxic Value Appreciated.
Scotland; 20th August, 1928.

Dear Sirs,

I am writing to let you know of my experience with 'ASPRO'. While I have made no chemical tests the CLINICAL RESULTS FULLY SUBSTANTIATE YOUR CLAIMS OF EXTREME PURITY. I have found that people who could not take ordinary ASPIRIN Owing to THE GASTRIC UPSET IT CAUSED READILY TOLERATED 'ASPRO'. Also doses of 'ASPRO' are effective where similar doses of Aspirin are not. It has, also, taken at night, a mild hypnotic effect which is very valuable considering its non-toxic character.

If you will send me samples for general use I shall have pleasure in distributing them to certain of my patients.

Yours faithfully, F.S. . . . (M.B., Ch. B.) (Name withheld for professional reasons.)

VASTLY SUPERIOR TO ORDINARY ASPIRIN

Cheshire, England, 7/2/20.

Dear Sirs,

In most cases I have found 'ASPRO' VASTLY SUPERIOR TO ORDINARY ASPIRIN, ESPECIALLY in patients who, in addition to varying conditions for which 'ASPRO' was given, also suffer from some form of digestive disturbance.

One case in particular is worthy of mention—A NURSE (age 39) engaged in public health and infant welfare work, since coming to Manchester four years ago, has suffered from sub-acute attacks of Rheumatism.

She COULD NEVER TOLERATE SALICYLATE IN THE FORM OF ASPIRIN OR IN MIXTURES. I gave her several sample boxes of 'ASPRO' and she is genuinely delighted with the results, viz.:

ALLEVIATION OF PAIN. UNDISTURBED SLEEP AND COMPLETE FREEDOM FROM ALL AFTER-EFFECTS. I N T H E SHAPE OF DEPRESSION AND INDIGESTION. If you care to let me have samples I shall be only too pleased to distribute them.

Yours faithfully (M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.)

EMINENT SWISS
ANALYSES "ASPRO."

Rue de Hesse, 4 et boul.

23rd, February, 1928.

'ASPRO' CERTIFICATE (Extract).
I have analysed qualitatively and quantitatively the 'ASPRO' Tablets. They contain NO FREE SALICYLIC ACID, and are extremely pure, answering in all respects the requirements of the Swiss Pharmacopoeia, which governs the prescription, preparation and sale of medicaments throughout the Confederation.

'ASPRO' is pure, 99.99 per cent—100 per cent. pure.
(Signed) Yours very truly,
Professor Dr. L. DEMOLIS.

(This is one of the most conclusive tributes given to any medicine in the world. It amply demonstrates the claims made for 'ASPRO' from time to time.)

102/22

The PURITY of 'ASPRO'

The purity of "ASPRO" conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. With "ASPRO" there is no free Salicylic Acid, therefore, it does not harm the Heart, or have any injurious after-effects, such as palpitation, nausea, digestive or other troubles. Safeguard your health and heart by always insisting on "ASPRO".

5 MINUTES

FOR RELIEF WITH
'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about "ASPRO". Its service is QUICK—safe, effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dissipate or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from "ASPRO", as it is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither dopes, deadens nor drugs.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, JUNE 3, 1934.

The King.

ONE of the King's personal friends who recently published a book of reminiscences tells us that shortly after Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's first Government took office he met the King on one of the stairways of Buckingham Palace, and asked him how he was getting on with his Labour Ministers. "Well," he said, "my grandmother would have hated it; my father would have tolerated it; but I move with the times." As a matter of fact he went out of his way to help any of his Ministers who cared to consult him on any matter where his experience could supply a useful suggestion to men who had often spent a good deal of time denouncing the imaginary luxury of the Court. Even the traditional knee-breeches as a part of Court dress were dispensed with for those who were afraid of some popular cartoonist taking advantage of a golden opportunity to depict an apparent inconsistency in one of the tribunes of the people. Sir Stafford Cripps in his recent prognostication of the programme of a Labour or Socialist Dictator, said that one of the first things to be done would be to destroy the influence of "Buckingham Palace"; and his remark was received with laughter by the working men to whom he was speaking. The incident vividly reveals the relationship between King George and his people. There was no need for anyone to make any protest. In a flash the audience had seen the contrast between the doctrinaire advocate of a foreign and anti-popular system and the very English Monarch who had shared their anxieties in troublous days; visited their sick and wounded in the Hospitals; and dealt with a load of daily work year after year with common sense and good humour.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding about the enormous importance of the Throne in the practical working of the Empire. Instead of being, as many of our American friends, who can never quite get away from what they may have read in their school-books about George III. seem to think, — a relic of feudalism, the Monarchy has in the last century been the means of spreading self-government and liberty throughout the whole Empire. A hundred years ago Canada, where there was a large enough community to work a system of democratic government, was very dissatisfied with the necessity of seeking approval of policy or administrative measures from the English Parliament or Ministers; and the general belief was that the only alternative was secession. It was Lord Durham in his famous memorandum that pointed out another way. The principle of Ministerial responsibility could be extended to the Canadian Ministers, and the status of the English Parliament be conferred on a Canadian Parliament. The common recognition of the King in both constitutions would supply the necessary link of citizenship required by international law. Much history has grown from that seed; for when the East India Company had outlived its day it was realised that the Royal Prerogative could be deputed to a Governor-General or Viceroy. The legal theory of Sovereignty and Prerogative has proved capable of endless elasticity, and where there is friction it is not because the system cannot be adapted but because somebody is for other reasons "agin' the Government."

It is extraordinary how a monarch's personality penetrates through all formalities to recognition by the people. It would be very surprising if any publication of private papers should alter our appreciation of King George's character either as King or as man. It is certain that we should not wish it to be altered. His Majesty, King George V. will be 69 years of age to-day and in every part of our widely-scattered Empire, Britishers will observe the occasion. King George by his personal qualities has achieved a popularity that has been accorded to few monarchs. Long may he reign.

LOCAL JOURNALISTS
IN HANKOWColony And Canton
Party On Tour.ENTERTAINED BY MARSHAL
CHANG HSUEH-LIANG

The joint party of Hong Kong and Canton Chinese journalists, who are now on a sight-seeing tour to the north, arrived at Hankow on Friday morning from Shanghai.

On their arrival the party visited all the main sights of interest, after which they were entertained by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang at his residence in the evening.

The party are expecting to leave for Peking on Tuesday morning, and will complete their tour after a week in the ancient capital.

About six vernacular newspaper owners and publishers in the Colony were among the party. They left Hong Kong two months ago, and have since then aroused much speculation among the Chinese.

In Shanghai, the visiting newspapermen were received and entertained by Mayor Wu Tieh Chen, and at Nanking they were welcomed by Mr. Wang Ching Twenty-four years ago on May 6 King George the Fifth, who celebrates his 69th birthday today, ascended the throne of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas.

What is he really like—this small, bearded man with the deep-set, tired eyes who rules over fourteen million square miles of the earth's surface and 450 million people?

Few people know. First of all he is, in every sense, a king.

His greatest quality is his ability to rule, to command, to guide. He is the most successful man in history at the hazardous job of kingship.

No monarch has ever ruled through a more difficult period. Ministers do not refer their problems to the King merely as a formality. They turn to him for guidance.

They know his ability to anticipate and interpret the wishes of the people.

He always knows the real feeling of the country.

He seems to live a sheltered, secluded life. He emerges only on occasions of formality and ceremony.

LOVES A ROMP

But no "man in the street" is more sensitive to the fluctuations of mass feeling.

That is his secret.

The attitude of the Royal Family towards him is a clue to the King's real character.

He is loved. He is respected. Not even the Prince of Wales, for whom his father has a deep admiration, would dream of running counter to the King's wishes in the smallest matter.

If any of the Princes thinks of changing his mode of life, public or private, in some way it is to the King he turns.

Only two members of the Royal Family ever lapse in respect towards the King.

They are Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. When they visit the King, ceremonial takes a holiday.

They romp and play with the King in his Audience Room. They hide behind the couch, crawl under the desk.

The King loves it as much as they do.

When he is at Buckingham Palace the King rarely goes out. When he does it means formality, cheering crowds. Also the King is a very busy man when he is in London.

A half-hour walk in the Palace grounds after lunch is his usual exercise in London. Sometimes he walks alone. Sometimes with an equerry.

But always around his feet scampers Bob, the Cairn terrier which took the place of Snip, when that much-loved pet died a few years ago.

HIS WHOLE-TIME JOB

His naval training has made the King thorough and methodical.

His life at Buckingham Palace is a model of industry and organization.

He has always regarded constitutional monarchy as a whole-time job.

Every morning, including Sundays, at the Palace he is called at 7.30.

The morning papers, "wired" in the old-fashioned way by a footman, are brought up. The King reads them until breakfast, which is at nine.

He reads them thoroughly, and he reads foreign papers when some item has been brought to his notice.

The King and the Queen always have breakfast together. It is a simple meal.

Wei, President of the Executive Yuan and concurrently Minister of Foreign Affairs. The journalists were feted at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi, when they were cordially invited to dinner on May 28 by General Chiang Kai Shek, Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission, at his mansion.

The King brews his own China tea with a silver kettle and spirit stove.

The meal lasts half an hour. Then the King bids good-bye to the Queen. He will not see her again until luncheon.

From half-past nine until one the King works without a break. It is in his pleasant, large Audience Room on the first floor, decorated simply in white and gold, that the King does most of his work. The long windows overlook the Palace gardens.

Here official visitors are received. State papers studied and signed.

He rarely writes. The physical effort of signatures is so great that all other writing is deputed to secretaries. There are three, always within call.

A little electric bell on the King's desk rings in their rooms and a white disc falls.

At night Sir Clive Wigram, the principal private secretary, and his two colleagues are always available. A private telephone line from the Palace connects with their homes.

TEA-TIME TALKS

The King eats plain, simple food, and not very much. He never drinks more than a small glass of whisky at lunch or dinner. He occasionally smokes a Turkish cigarette. He never smokes a cigar.

There are seldom more than three courses at luncheon. The meal lasts only half an hour.

After the lunch-time walk in the gardens there is more work or a public engagement to occupy the time until tea.

Tea is perhaps the King's favourite meal of the day. He loves to sit and talk with the Queen when tea is served in her Chinese room at the front of the Palace on the Constitution-hill side.

News of all kinds is welcome—domestic or otherwise.

The King's only hobby in London is his stamp collection. Two afternoons a week he pays a visit to the stamp room.

Only the most urgent business is allowed to interrupt those previous periods of complete relaxation.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 107.

ermite. Now that the summer rains are about to show signs of approaching we may expect to see the swarming of the termites. Actually we observed a first swarm a little over a week ago.

The termites are commonly known as white ants and this name is probably always be applied to them even though, as Mr. Pyecraft writes, "the Termites are about as closely related to the ants as a bee to a man." Less than a thousand species are known of which only two are commonly found in Europe. Five different castes are distinguished in each species three of which are capable of reproduction the other two, the soldiers and the workers, being sterile. The reproductive castes are fully winged, short winged or devoid of wings; the fully winged are the most important not much being known about the other two.

It is the fully winged caste, both males and females, that forms the vast swarms which so often invade houses on a warm evening in early summer especially if heavy rain has fallen recently. We have watched these winged males and females emerging from the exit of the underground burrow and taking to flight. After flying in the air for some time they settle and shed their wings. The wings break off at a suture near the base thus the stumps are left. Unlike the non-winged forms these winged males and females are attracted by light. A good method of catching them is to direct the light from a reading lamp into a white dish (large photographic developing dish) filled with water. If such a dish is not available a trap can be improvised by means of a large sheet of white paper pinned so as to form a very wide angled cone with a hole cut at the apex and balanced over a jar of water. If the light is sprayed out the surface of the water the termites will soon perish.

After the wings are shed the insects aggregate in pairs, it seems as the male holds on to the posterior of the female and follows her about. The pair then seek darkness and either burrow into the ground or disappear between the planks of the floor where union takes place. The female, now called the queen, changes considerably in form. Her body expands and, whilst her muscles and unnecessary organs degenerate, her ovaries and other sexual organs develop to an amazing extent until her external appearance can be likened to a white bolster-like object from two to six inches in length. She then proceeds to lay her eggs and the colossal rate of 30,000 eggs in 24 hours, one egg every three seconds, has been determined for some species of termites. The male undergoes no such startling change and remains in attendance on the queen.

To attain this egg laying efficiency the queen must be fed and this feeding is carried out by the workers. The first few eggs that are laid, before the queen develops into an egg producing machine, develop into workers and these undertake the care of the queen. Presumably the queen (and perhaps also the king) look after the first immature workers but after they have developed the royal pair can take things quietly (There is no evidence to show that the king counts his family). It is the workers that do the damage. The queen may live for several years and produce millions of eggs. The offspring of one queen could quite easily demolish a cathedral or government house if left undisturbed.

Very few pairs ever manage to set up house together, they have many enemies. As the winged forms leave the nest the process of destruction commences, heavy rain blows thousands, birds, and bats, and toads have the feast of their eyes and inside the house the wall crabs, geckos, eat so many and come so plump that they lose all power of bodily movement and can only roll their eyes, open their mouths and swallow. And those that are left are consumed by the ants, the worst enemies of the termites. A couple may be lucky and so it is just as well to discourage matrimony and home making where it is likely to take place. When termites are swarming either shut the windows or arrange a simple light trap, close book-cases and take the precaution of having the cracks between the floor-planks filled with putty.

If termites are troublesome in the garden the best scheme is to bury poisoned sawdust round the stems of the affected plants or in the runs. (100 parts sawdust mixed with one part of Paris green). Termites are cannibals and poisoned individuals are eaten by their comrades so a little arsenic will go a long way. If it gets to the queen then she may die and the colony may come to an end.

PRIVATE LIFE OF BRITAIN'S RULER.

He enjoys the same thrills as every other collector—arranging, indexing, examining new specimens critically, tracking down a rare stamp that other collectors are after.

How does the King keep fit when in London? The answer is in the regularity of his life and his daily walks. He rarely breaks his "bed at 10.30" rule.

Even on Court nights he and the Queen leave the ballroom on the right side of eleven. The King retires immediately.

On other nights when there is no official entertaining the King likes to sit by the fire with the Queen listening to the wireless.

He has a special set with an automatic switch device which enables any one of sixteen British and foreign stations to be found instantly.

At Sandringham and Balmoral the King leads a freer and more varied life than in London.

He is by no means off duty. The King is never off duty.

Work follows him wherever he goes.

When the Court is out of London a special King's Messenger service takes despatches twice a day, and there is a special postal service. Three or four mail bags go every day to Sandringham when the King is there.

Though only a small percentage of the thousands of letters addressed to him concern the King personally, each is read and answered. He is always within reach by telephone.

But at Sandringham his routine is different. He rises at the same time—7.30. He has a brief talk with the secretary who is on duty.

But after that, unless something urgent happens, he is free from work till six in the evening.

Then he goes to his study and deals with papers and mails which have accumulated during the day.

Sandringham is, more than any other place, "home" to the King. He spent the early years of his married life there.

If he had not the burden of kingship he would probably spend his days there, leading the simple life of a country squire.

There, among the kindly Norfolk people, he is happiest. His friends come to stay with him for a week-end or week.

FAVOURITE SPORT There is a minimum of ceremony and formality.

Shooting is the one outdoor sport which really appeals to the King. And his favourite place for it is in the woods and coverts around Sandringham.

At sixty-nine he is still one of the best shots in Britain, but since his long illness his eyesight is a little less keen.

When he goes out shooting or walking at Sandringham he has a smile and a word for all the village folk he meets.

He knows them all by name, knows their circumstances and troubles.

He is the perfect squire. Nowhere in the private life of King George is there anything ostentatious.

He is a man of simple tastes and habits. His absorbing interest in life is the work and duty which is his heritage.

TODAY'S WEDDING AT KOWLOON TONG

FIELD — DE SOUZA.

"MICKEY'S MELODY-MAKERS" LEADER TO WED

The wedding will take place this afternoon at St. Theresa's Church, Kowloon Tong, of Miss Billy Field, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Field, to Mr. Miguel de Souza, of Kowloon Tong.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well-known in the Colony, the latter being the conductor of "Mickey's Melody-Makers" jazz orchestra, which has frequently delighted listeners over ZBW, the Hong Kong Broadcasting Station.

Miss Field has chosen for her bridal gown a "Eunice" creation of Ten Rose Liberty satin and supple lace of the same shade, with unusually long dovetailed train and a bridal veil of silk tulle beautifully embroidered, held by clusters of lustre finished orange blossoms.

Following the ceremony a reception will take place at Savarin House, Hankow Road.

STUDENTS FROM NEW TERRITORIES

First Visit To Colony To-morrow.

TOUR OF INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

A group of students and villagers of Sheungshui, New Territories, will take advantage of the holiday to-morrow in honour of His Majesty the King's birthday, when they will visit the Colony. It will be the first trip, for many of them, to Hong Kong.

Mr. Cheung King Sung, supervisor of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. Day School and of the New Territories Rural and Educational Work is making arrangements for their stay in Hong Kong.

The visitors will attend the Governor's Review, after which they will visit the Watson's Aerated Water Works, On Lok Yuen Factory, Fung Keong Rubber Factory, Lee Man Hing Knitting Factory, and other leading industrial plants in the Colony. The group will have tiffin at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., and will return to Sheungshui at 6 o'clock in the evening.

The group is composed of students and villagers of the Goon Kwong Club of Fung Kai School, Sheungshui, New Territories.

SEQUEL TO ATTACK ON ACTOR.

Chinese Detained For Enquiries.

NO CHARGES YET LAID.

Following investigations into the mysterious and unprovoked attack on the well-known Chinese actor, Chiun Li-kwai, early last Tuesday morning, near the Ko Shing Theatre, an unemployed Chinese named Lam Pak, has been detained by Police for inquiries.

The man, who was arrested by a Chinese detective in Hollywood Road, on Thursday night, has not yet been formally charged, pending further investigations.

The attack on Mr. Chiun took place outside the Ko Shing Theatre at 12.05 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when he was struck over the head with a spanner, about four inches long, by an unknown assailant. The spanner, which was thrown away by the attacker, is the only evidence against the unknown person.

Mr. Chiun was coming out of the theatre at the Wo Fung Street entrance at the time of the attack.

Mr. Chiun's injuries to his head and face, were not, however, serious. He was able to continue his performances at the Ko Shing Theatre the next day.

At the time of the attack he was on his way to his residence at the Nam Ping Hotel, Des Voeux Road, Central.

Many theories as to the motive of the attack had been advanced by local Chinese papers. The theory of robbery was discarded since nothing was taken from him, although at the time he was carrying a bag, in which were some important documents.

Chiun Li-kwai is well-known in southern China as a first-class actor, having played in America.

The Super-Horse.

WE are all familiar with Nietzsche's conception of the "super-man," who is to be eugenically bred so that both physically and intellectually he will be so much beyond ordinary mortals that he would certainly have the power, and probably the will, to wipe us all out. It requires a great deal of altruism, to contemplate the prospect with any pleasure. And would he not be rather lonely, with no companions sufficiently clever to appreciate his sage apophthegms? Anyhow, we have had a complete control over the breeding of horses that is scarcely conceivable with human beings, and it is interesting to watch the results when a super-horse appears.

There was an old English proverb for a runaway event "Eclipse first, the rest nowhere." The saying arose from the laconic report of a Derby, which was won by a horse that was never beaten. In those days there were not so many handicaps, but as far as the record goes there was no weight that was sufficient to bring him together with the field. At the stud he did not prove able to pass on his progeny, or we might have had a strain that would have become a new class altogether. On the other hand, a horse that was not by any means so outstanding on the course, St. Simon, proved immensely more valuable at the stud farm.

In Hong Kong the present season has confirmed the position at the head of all competitors of "Liberty Bell." How discouraging it must be for a game racer like Sado to see him pounding along lengths ahead, with the jockey sitting upright and unconcerned. We go down to applaud the victory of the best horse, but if he is incomparably best we desert the tote for the bar. If somebody could only find another animal that could give Liberty Bell a race or, still more, inconceivably, a beating, the interest in the principal events at Happy Valley would be equal to the excitement of a compensation race for "D" class ponies.

Meetings.

THIS spell of weather will at any rate have one good effect. It will be obviously absurd to have any more meetings; or at any rate, anyone who is looking for an excuse not to go will be held blameless. One can sometimes find a good suggestion even in a film. One scene in "Congress Dances" appealed strongly, the scene in which the wily Metternich is supposed to have provided for the better amusement of the other delegates, and sits at the head of the table proposing resolutions to which the stately chairs automatically bow agreement. Our Hong Kong meetings are so well conducted and with such admirable propriety, that one really wonders why any audience is considered necessary at all.

Given the occasion or subject one can tell exactly who will be there, or at least ninety per cent. The annual report will be taken as read, and the accounts will all be in good order. One looks round with hope when someone gets up to ask a question. But his air is so polite, even apologetic, that the answer of the Chairman to the effect that he thinks the suggestion might well be considered finishes the matter. It is very difficult to say why one should come away heavy in spirit. It would be absurd to wish that the accounts should not balance. But after all it must have been rather fascinating when the Auditor's report was read at a recent company meeting in London, to the following effect:—"I have not been furnished with all the information I required; and none of the securities for which credit was taken on the assets side were produced for my inspection." After all, even the immaculate Tennyson was haunted with the fear "that one good custom should corrupt the world."

Perhaps one suggestion of a practical nature might be made for the school-concerts of another year. Why not have a genuine performance not only acted but invented and written by the children themselves? It is easy to make allowances. We can hear the grown-ups on other occasions. One would get more playlets like the famous two act piece in which the husband goes off to India in the first act, and on his return is greeted by the enthusiastic wife drawing aside a curtain and displaying six well filled cradles with the triumphant "too have not been idle."

POPULAR PUPIL AT CENTRAL BRITISH

The death occurred at the Kowloon Hospital, on Friday afternoon, of Helen Faith Pearce Ingram, the daughter of Mr. A. W. Ingram, Secretary of the European Y.M.C.A., and Mrs. Ingram.

Miss Helen Ingram, who was within a month of celebrating her twelfth birthday, was stricken with meningitis exactly a week ago. The Shattered Dreams Of Life

Hearts Often Baffled By Divine Desires

BROADING MAKES MAN BETTER

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by the local Army chaplain.)

THERE are few things sadder on this earth than what we call a disappointed man. He is so often, it is not his disappointments that have made him bitter, but the way he has brooded over them, and let them sink into his heart and soul.

On the other hand, there are people whom no bafflings can tame, whom no thwartings can embitter. Of such St. Paul was a great example. On his second missionary journey, he wanted to go to a place called Bithynia, but we are told "The Spirit suffered them not." He had no love for the sea, and it must have been a bitter blow to have his plans checked. But what would have happened otherwise? He would never have landed on the shores of Europe. He was thwarted, but it led him to his crown, and a greater service than he had ever imagined.

Is not the same experience very true in the lives of all of us? For some reason or other, God holds us back from the things we hoped for and dreamed about. Think of the baffling of our childhood's dreams.

We were going to do such wonderful things. There were seas in it and wild adventure, and daring and excitement. Well, the years have come and gone since then, and we are not sailors or splendid quiet-living citizens. We have adventures, but respectable and been led instead to the very place where we can be of value, to those common everyday tasks that build up character, and help the world.

Think again of those immature hopes, born when childish things are put away. It is easy to be glad when they are reached; less easy when the way is barred. Sometimes it is a matter of health. It is the body that becomes the barrier. The arm of the artist has been paralysed on the verge of his career, the hand of the surgeon is crippled. Sometimes it is a matter of plain duty, and a man must yield his hopes for those he loves. All he had striven for must go by.

Or again can't we trace the same thing in the bafflings of the cravings of our hearts?

There are people whose whole life is little else than a hunger and a thirst for love. They do not want to be rich—they do not envy the kind of life—that wealth can bring. They do not want to be famous. They are not troubled with intellectual questionings; for them the one real thing in the heart, and all they ask of God and life is this—some one on whom to lavish the warm affection of their hearts. The strange thing is how often they are baffled in this divinest of divine desires.

Unfulfilled Dreams.

The years go by, and they have many friends; but the one of their dreaming never comes. And that is always a bitter thing, no matter how it is fought against in secret, for while an unsatisfied intellect is sore, a heart unsatisfied is sorer still. Others have reached the sunshine on the hill, for them the way is barred. Yet how often, for all its hidden loneliness that ordering has been found to be of God, leading His servants to the calling of His service, sublimating that heart's desire to the betterment of humanity. As life advances rest becomes more sweet, and the comfort of life and peace of life more dear. We ask for less and less as the year goes by. It is always one sign of growing older. The land that we long for is not the mountain top, but a land of quiet peacefulness and comfort. So we attempt to journey into Bithynia, where we shall find these things, and then comes God and bars the way; and says "this is not your rest."

He does it sometimes by the hand of death, shattering the contentment of our days. He does it by conscience keeping us uneasy; by fear of to-morrow in our most secure estate; by the shame which visits us when we see other lives so strenuous and so gallant to the end. Sometimes He does it by the hand of sickness, falling on the children whom we love. He blocks our way when we would settle down, and urges us mightily to the beyond, to things that are eternal and unshakable, to find our rest where there is no more death, but life which is eternal.

He does it sometimes by the hand of death, shattering the contentment of our days. He does it by conscience keeping us uneasy; by fear of to-morrow in our most secure estate; by the shame which visits us when we see other lives so strenuous and so gallant to the end. Sometimes He does it by the hand of sickness, falling on the children whom we love. He blocks our way when we would settle down, and urges us mightily to the beyond, to things that are eternal and unshakable, to find our rest where there is no more death, but life which is eternal.

OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
London, May 1.

Mr. Elliot's Deputy

Mr. Walter Elliot's operation compelled the Government to find a deputy for him in the House of Commons in the debate on the Marketing Boards.

The Minister of Agriculture's assistant in Lord De La Warr, but he sits in the House of Lords. A front bench in the Commons was required. Sir John Gilmour, as Mr. Elliot's immediate predecessor, seemed the obvious choice.

He has been passed over, and the mantle has fallen on Mr. Ormsby-Gore, who has never been at the Ministry of Agriculture.

He is, however, the "Minister of Horticulture," for as First Commissioner of Works he has charge of the Royal Parks and gardens.

He also works in close personal association with Mr. Elliot in the Government.

Cardinal Bourne's Jubilee

The Catholic community in Britain will celebrate Cardinal Bourne's Golden Jubilee in the priesthood on June 11.

Their natural joy will be heightened by the fact that the Cardinal has steadily recovered from the serious illness from which he nearly died a year ago, and he is going to receive two main presentations: one from the laity and one from the clergy.

For the laity a Jubilee Fund has been inaugurated by Lord Fitzalan.

The clergy, particularly the priests and nuns of the Westminster Archdiocese, have subscribed to oak panelling and parquetry flooring for the chapel of St. Edmund's College, Ware.

Cardinal Bourne spent some time there as a student. The chapel, built by Pugin in the middle of the 19th century, was never finished. So the gift of the clergy crowns the work as well as being a thanksgiving—for Cardinal Bourne's Jubilee.

What Sir John Simon Wants

Sir John Simon has a new ambition. He wants to win the Parliamentary golf handicap.

He is pursuing his aim with all the persistence of which he is capable. He now lives at Walton Heath. His spare moments are spent on practice. He has an expert adviser in James Brad, who knows of Sir John's ambition. Being a Scot, he keeps to himself his opinion of the chances of its realisation.

He never had a more careful student. The Foreign Secretary is a dark horse. He has a long handicap. He has also the faculty of upsetting a temperamental opponent by his laboriously calculating methods and the deliberation with which he plays his shots.

When he addresses his ball he seems to have gone into a state of suspended animation.

A Princely Rival

The Prince of Wales has entered again. He, too, has a great ambition to win "the Parliamentary."

Last year he came very near it but was beaten in the final by the veteran Mr. George Lambert.

The Prince has not played competitive golf for several months, but he returned to it yesterday and won two matches at the Royal Navy and Royal Marine Golfing Society's annual meeting.

The "Parliamentary" is a popular social event. While some of the competitors are more distinguished for their enthusiasm than their skill, there are crack players too. They include Colonel Moore Brabazon, Mr. A. R. Nall-Cain and Sir Murdoch Mackenzie Wood.

The winners include two men who became Prime Ministers. Lord Balfour won it three times, and Bonar Law once—in 1907.

All in the Name

Lord Lloyd and Mr. Lloyd George have once again been confused.

A Japanese newspaper attributed the views of the poor to the ex-Premier, and has made due amends.

There is less excuse now for confusion of names than there used to be when Lord Lloyd was Mr. George Lloyd.

There are other cases where similarity in names has led to confusion. There are Lord Stanley of Alderley; the Earl of Middleton and Lord Middleton.

Finally Mr. Lloyd George has had many doubles.

The best known and most frequently mistaken for him is Mr. F. O. Roberts, the former Labour Minister.

Mr. Roberts has been cheered many times in the belief that he was "L. G."

There was a Glasgow acquaintance of Mr. Lloyd George whose appearance recently in the Daily caused a sensation. Some years ago a reporter who recorded many of Mr. Lloyd George's speeches was frequently embarrassed by the attention given to him.

Similarly a City man during the war used to be hailed often as the Prime Minister.

Perhaps the best "double" of all is provided by Major Attlee, the Socialist leader, and Lord Eame Gordon-Lennox, the Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod.

Mr. Lloyd George's Plans

Mr. Lloyd George's reticence about his political future is largely due to pressure of work. He has had to deliver to the publishers the manuscript of the third volume of his war memoirs and every available minute has been occupied in checking and correcting what he has written.

There are two more volumes to come, but it is predicted that the Wizard will indulge in a spell of his old political activity in the early summer.

At present he is reluctant to leave Churt even for a day.

Support for Mr. Foot

His advice to Liberal electors in North Hammersmith to vote Labour is not new. He said the same thing in 1931.

What is more interesting is the reason he gives for supporting Mr. John Foot, the Liberal candidate at Basingstoke. It is because he represents "what several elections have demonstrated to be the more powerful using of the progressive force in the constituency." This seems to imply that Mr. Lloyd George will only support Liberal candidates in constituencies where they ran second last time.

Left Incline

The Liberal elector in North Hammersmith must be sufficiently fuddled already, with out any advice from Churt. The Simonites tell him to support the National candidate.

The Samuelites, resting between manifestos, have received no request for advice, and those who don't ask don't get. In any case, the last Liberal candidate in the constituency polled under 2,000 votes and lost his deposit.

But even if the Liberals vote Socialist the Independent Labour Party will tend to vote Communist. These poor lost scraps of dead parties ought to amalgamate—not cancel each other out.

Poetry Sometimes Pays

At a meeting of the Kipling Society in London M. Andre Maurois predicted that a thousand years hence men would still be reading Kipling.

Kipling has strong claims to the title of the world's best seller.

Mr. Dan Longwell, the sales manager of Doubleday, Doran, the New York publishers, says that nearly half a million volumes of Kipling's poetry have been sold in American book stores.

These figures include only the sales of full-priced editions. They do not include the books of poems in sets of Kipling's works. Nor do they include the half million copies of "If" sold separately.

In the United States alone the aggregate sales of Kipling's poetry are probably nearer the two than the one million mark.

SCOTTISH YOUTH ASSISTED.

Government Provide Passage Home.

George Lucas, a Scottish youth, who had been retained in Police custody on a vagrancy charge, was sent back to Scotland yesterday.

Since his detention, the Police have been endeavouring to find employment for the youth, to enable him to stay in the Colony.

Lucas was stated to have come to the Colony from Japan by the s.s. President Coolidge on May 9 to catch a freighter to Manila. He was originally sent by the British Consul in Tokyo, but, having missed the boat he was sent by the President Coolidge. Upon his arrival here he found that the freighter had left port. He was found wandering in the Colony when detained.

SUGAR DUMPING IN CHINA

The Ministry of Industry has sent a delegate to Canton to investigate the reported dumping of foreign sugar on China. According to a report in the Chinese papers, China loses $40,000,000 annually due to the dumping.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

COMMENCING Sunday matinee, June 10, and continuing for a strictly limited engagement only, the Greater MARCUS SHOW of 1934 will be offered at the QUEEN'S THEATRE. The company numbers seventy persons and is by far the most populous theatrical organization that has ever been brought to the Orient from abroad. Long regarded as among the foremost American extravaganzas, the Greater MARCUS SHOW of 1934 is being presented in the Eastern Hemisphere precisely as it was for many seasons in the leading legitimate playhouses of the United States and Canada  WITHOUT attenuation and WITHOUT abridgement.

The Greater MARCUS SHOW of 1934 will come to Hong Kong directly following its amazingly successful run at Shanghai where it enjoyed a run of six weeks, more than duplicating there its sensational stay of fifty days at Nippon Gekijo, Tokyo. Aside from the popular reaction as testified by the lengthy engagements of the Greater MARCUS SHOW of 1934 in both Tokyo and Shanghai, the press of the two cities were in unanimity in lauding alike the merit of the presentations and the enterprise of its entrepreneurs in bringing productions of such opulence and artistic worth to the Far East.

Three different and distinct extravaganzas will be presented by the Greater MARCUS SHOW during its brief stand at the QUEEN'S. LA VIE PAREE, a revue in two acts and thirty scenes—many highly bizarre and spectacular, will be the inaugural bill starting Sunday matinee, June 10. Later BROADWAY MERRY-GO-ROUND and OKAY will be staged.

Two complete, two-and-three-quarter-hour, all-flesh—no picture—stage performances will be given every day  starting 5.30 and 9.15 P.M.

Despite the large expense of touring an attraction of this magnitude in the Orient the PRICE SCALE AT THE QUEEN'S will NOT EXCEED the tariff in vogue for the Greater MARCUS SHOW during its appearances in the first class theatres of the United States and Canada and will, in fact, BE LESS than the scales charged in Tokyo (Y.7.00) and Shanghai (M$6.00).

 Following are the prices that will prevail during the Engagement at the QUEEN'S

Los Angeles, May 6.
The world's record for putting the 16lb. weight has again been improved by J. Lyman (University of Southern California).
At a meeting at Los Angeles Lyman put the weight 54ft. 0 3/4 in., which is considerably better than the official world record of 52ft. 7 3/4 in. established by Z. Heljusz (Poland) in 1932.
Lyman has consistently been putting the weight over 54ft., and J. Torrance (Louisiana State University) is said to have reached 55ft.

AUSTRALIANS TOTAL 629 BUT FORCED TO DRAW

McCabe Scores 240
And Bromley 56.

GOVER 5 FOR 147

London, Yesterday.
As was fully expected the cricket match between the Australians and Surrey ended in a draw at Kensington Oval yesterday.

In all 1,266 runs were scored for 19 wickets — an average of 66 runs per wicket!
Woodfull made no attempt to force a decision, allowing the Australians to continue their batting practice, the remaining seven wickets adding 223 runs to total 629, the tourists' highest aggregate to date.

Stanley McCabe carried his overnight total of 185 to 210, hitting 29 boundaries in his stay of 375 minutes. He should have been dismissed off Gover's expresses several times earlier in his innings.
Bromley batted enterprisingly for his 56, which included a six and 7 boundaries.

Gover, who bowled at a fast pace throughout without any luck, secured 5 for 147.

Set the task of scoring 154 to save the innings defeat, Surrey totalled 162 for the loss of two wickets before the close of play. Gregory who scored 116 in the first innings, was undefeated with 59, while F. R. Brown, a member of Jardine's Australian team, scored 54 not out, reaching his 50 in 35 minutes.

The Australians have beaten Worcester, Cambridge University, Essex, Oxford University, and Middlesex, and have drawn with Leicester, the M.C.C., Hampshire and Surrey in the course of their nine matches to date. They are now engaged against Lancashire at Old Trafford in their last match before they encounter England in the first Test match at Trent Bridge, Larwood's home ground, on Friday.

S. J. McCabe, the young New South Wales player, is only 24 years old, but he has already set a high standard in first-class cricket.

187 IN TEST
In the first Test at Sydney in the last series, against the deadly bowling of Larwood, he scored a faultless 187 not out.

CRAWFORD ONLY HOLDER LEFT

Loses Mixed Doubles
With Miss Scriven.

MEN'S DOUBLES RESULTS WILL BE DAVIS CUP POINTER

Paris, Yesterday.
Jack Crawford, Australian Davis Cup captain, is the only surviving holder in the French Lawn Tennis Championships at Auteuil.

Yesterday Crawford and Margaret Scriven, the British left-hander, holders of the Mixed Doubles title, were beaten by Adrian Quist, another Australian, and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, famous American doubles player.

Crawford, however, had just completed his match in the Men's Doubles in which he and Vivian McGrath were taken to four sets by Menzel and Hecht, conquerors of Perry and Huges, the holders.

Crawford and McGrath will now meet Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, French aces, in the final, and the result of the match should provide a pointer for the Davis Cup contest. Crawford will defend his singles title against Von Cramm, the German champion.

Miss Ryan is also in two finals, being partnered by Mme. Mathieu in the Women's Doubles, against Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, the American Wightman Cup pair.

Results as cabled by Reuter were:
MEN'S DOUBLES—SEMI-FINALS.
J. Borotra and J. Brugnon (France) beat A. K. Quist and D. Turnbull (Australia) 6-2, 14-12, 6-2.
J. A. Crawford and V. McGrath (Australia) beat R. Menzel and L. Hecht (Czechoslovakia) 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES—SEMI-FINALS.

Miss H. Jacobs and Miss S. Palfrey (U.S.A.) beat Miss Noel and Mlle. Jedrejowski 6-1, 6-4.

MIXED DOUBLES—SEMI-FINALS.
A. Quist and Miss E. Ryan beat J. A. Crawford and Miss M. Scriven 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

LAWN TENNIS.

A. K. Safford and S. A. Ismail proved their worth last week when they beat two Club pairs, and drew with R. S. Traill and D. C. Dunham, the Club's No. 1 pair. They have a tenacity which is hard to combat, and their brilliant recovery, when they struggled from 5-0 down to 6-4 against Traill and Dunham, was perhaps one of the best displays of determination seen on the courts this season.

The C.R.C. have some very strong "B" Division players, their veteran pair, Lau and Hon having done remarkably well this season. The Kowloon Cricket Club have encountered stronger opponents than the S.C.A.A. and should not have much difficulty against them on their own ground.

Clean Sweep For Recreation?
The Recreation should crush the Graduates without much difficulty, although Dr. Tsai and Dr. Kho have proved a stumbling block to the men of both the University and the C.R.C. in their opening matches.

On their showing to date the University will probably defeat the H. K. C. C. by a narrow margin, although the Club whose side is always a more or less unknown quantity, are quite capable of upsetting calculations.

With Traill and Dunham in good form and J. Bathurst and T. A. Pearce in anything like good form the University will have a hard fight to secure the extra sets.

A full programme of "C" Division matches will take place on Friday, the best match probably being between the C.R.C. and the I.R.C. at Sookunpoo.

He played in the five Test matches in Australia last year, his only other score of any merit was in the last test when he hit up 73, again on the Sydney cricket ground.

McCabe was second to Bradman in the Australian batting average for the tests, with an average of 42.77. McCabe also played in all the Tests in the 1930 series in England, returning an average of 35 with a highest score of 54.

Scores as cabled by Reuter were:

Surrey: 475 for 7 dec. (Sandham 219, Gregory 110).
162 for 2 (Gregory 59 not out, F. R. Brown 54 not out).
Australians: 629 (S. J. McCabe 240, W. H. Ponsford 125, D. G. Bradman 77, H. Bromley 56, Gover 5 for 147).

"I fixed my suspenders and let them down a lot farther," he says. "Besides they were always a little big for me."

"Let's make sure," I says. I'll get a yardstick and we'll make absolutely sure."

"But I guess he was too scared to face things. He wouldn't do it."

"He managed to dodge me all week. Then, last Saturday night, I ran into him as I was leaving the theatre. I asked him if he felt any better."

"I feel all right," he says. He really looked scared to death."

"That's the last time I saw him before I went over to Jersey City after Mrs. Pike phoned me Tuesday morning."

"Patrolman Gorlitz has testified that the bodies were in opposite ends of the room when he arrived. They were in that position when you forced open the door?"

"Yes, sir."

"The medical examiner has testified that they were both dead of knife wounds, apparently from the same knife. Would you assume the knife had fallen from Dawle's hand as he fell?"

"Yes, sir."

"Has it been your purpose to suggest that both men were driven to despondency by a fear of lack of employment for Dawle, and that they might have committed suicide?"

"No, sir. I don't think anything of the kind."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, when Mrs. Pike and I went in the room and I got a look at the knife, I said to Mrs. Pike that that was a funny kind of a knife for them to have in the room. You can see it's a kind of a butcher knife. Then Mrs. Pike told me it was one that she'd misplaced from her kitchen a few weeks before. She'd never thought either Robel or Jimmy had taken it. It struck me as funny Robel or Jimmy had stolen it, too. Then I put two and two together and found out what really happened. Have you got the little broken cane that was lying on the bed?"

"Yes, sir."

"That was lying on the bed?"

"Yes, sir."

MOTORING NOTES - - -

New York Police Select Terraplanes

The New York Police Department has recently purchased a number of Terraplane coupes for the use of policemen in the motor-car fleet. All the cars are equipped with radio. It is understood that the Terraplane was selected after competitive trials and was chosen for its speed and get-away, and because it was so easily handled in heavy traffic.

170 M.P.H. ITALIAN CAR.

Entry For Brookland's Race.

One of the new very fast, very light, and very dangerous Italian racing cars was seen in England for the first time recently. It was driven by Whitney Straight, the young American crack. In the International Trophy race of 250 miles at Brooklands.

It was one of these cars, which weigh only 14cwt., and are capable of 170 m.p.h., that Nuvolari was driving when he crashed in his race at Alessandria recently.

ALGERIAN ROAD SAFETY LAWS.

Following the example of France, says "Motor Transport," a regulation has just come into operation in Algeria requiring all heavy motor vehicles in use in that country to be fitted with sound-amplifying devices to enable their drivers to hear the hooting or other indication of following vehicles that desire to pass. Motor trucks drawing trailers must have a clear yellow triangular light on the rear of the trailer, while vehicles having a width of more than two metres (about 6ft. 6in.) must carry two orange-coloured lights to denote their width.

EXPERIMENTAL TROLLEY BUSES IN LONDON

In connection with the proposed substitution of trolley buses for trams by London Transport over a number of routes around London, two new trolley buses are being supplied for experimental purposes, according to "Motor Transport." One of these vehicles will be a four-wheeled 60 seater and the other a six-wheeled 73-seater.

THE FIRST LONDON BUSES

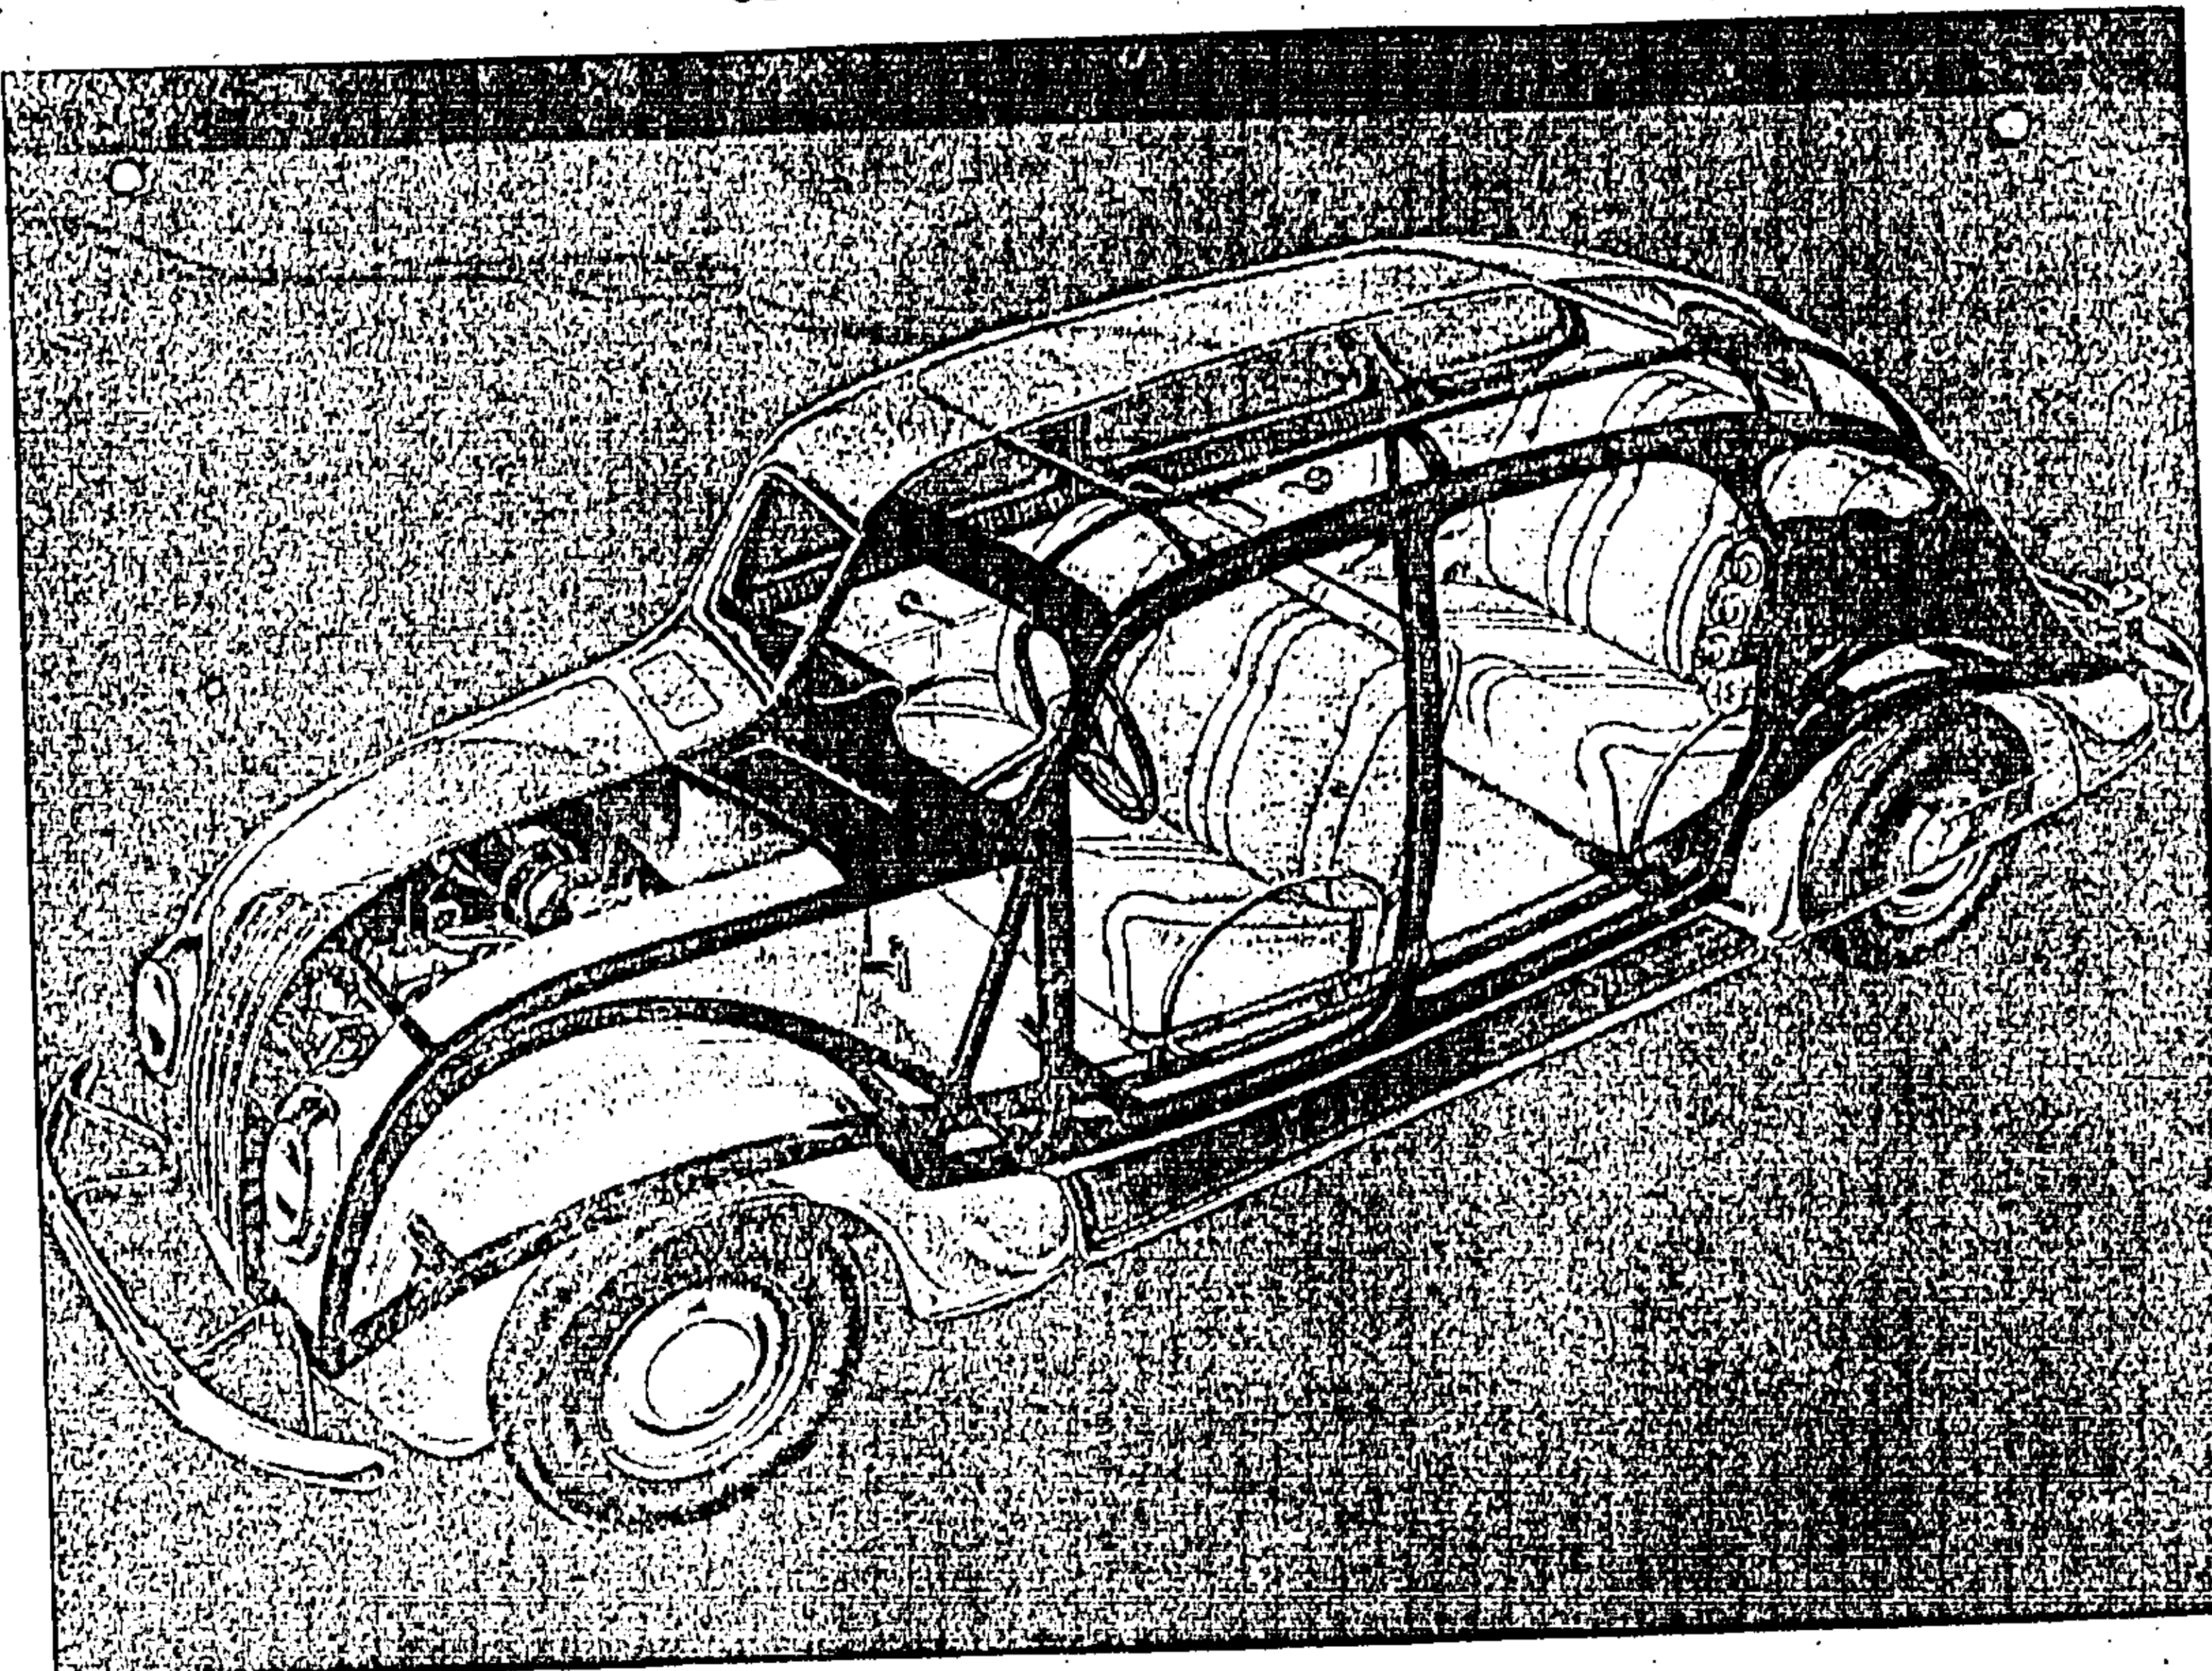

The year 1829 saw the birth of buses in London. The first route was the "Yorkshire Stingo" (Marylebone) to Bank. The fare was 1s., with papers and magazines free. The takings were reported to be £100 per week per bus—"Motor Transport."

For the three days' run the new record is 9,760 kilometres (6,065 miles), at an average speed of over 84 m.p.h., against 8,987 kilometres and an average of 77½ m.p.h.

Nearly 6½ hours were knocked off the time for the 10,000 kilometres (6,214 miles), which was covered in 73h. 43min., as compared with 79h. 56min.

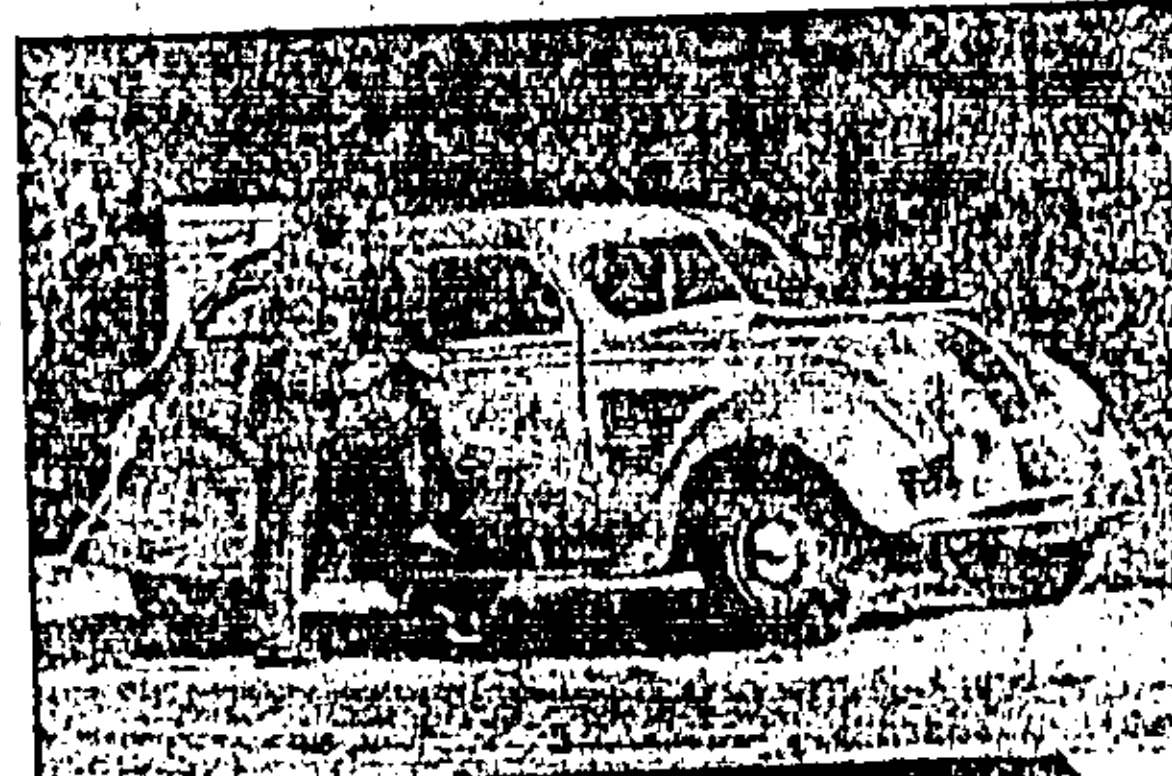

In four days 13,066½ kilometres were covered at an average speed of 84½ m.p.h., against 12,035 kilometres at an average of 77½ m.p.h.

ON DISPLAY THIS WEEK.

BUILT LIKE A BRIDGE

IN the new Airflow De Soto passengers ride within the frame surrounded by structural steel of great strength, for, in this outstanding motor car, the frame and the body frame-work are one and the same thing. The actual construction is modified only slightly from the principle of girder-trussed bridge construction. With its all steel body and its frame which is many times more rigid than the ordinary frame, De Soto provides the safest motor car construction known. Combined with a complete redistribution of weight and greatly increased interior roominess, De Soto offers the type of motor car luxury and comfort you have always desired. A ride in the new Airflow De Soto will prove that riding or driving a De Soto is an entirely new and thrilling experience. One ride in a new Airflow De Soto will convince you that—"In this new era De Soto leads."

South had been having a lot of good luck, while East—a jolly good fellow—had been having a persistent run of bad luck. South was the Dealer at the start of a new rubber, and accidentally turned up the King of spades as it was dealt to East.

"Keep it," remarked South. "I'll do my best to make you lose it."
"You won't succeed if I have the luck to get something to go with it," replied East.

The reader can readily gather that this game was not played for blood, as are some games at the Contract table, but was one in which the spirit of good fellowship took precedence over the rules.

South completed the deal, picked up his hand, and made a Pre-emptive bid of five diamonds. West, of course, passed, and North studied his hand a long time and finally bid seven diamonds, later explaining when he put down his Dummy:

"If you can bid five, knowing the spade King is against you, and without two Aces, then, as I hold those Aces, surely I can raise you to seven."

East doubled the bid of seven, with the remark:
"I don't mind telling you I have something to go with that King."
West's Opening lead was the heart King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy.

The Declarer, as he now realised, held one loser—namely, the spade Knave. There was no chance to dispose of this loser by trumping it out or discarding it on a good card in Dummy. The only chance lay in a squeeze. If West could be forced to save the high heart and East forced to save the high spade, the play might succeed.

The Declarer, after taking the first trick, took two rounds of trumps, played the spade Ace and the club King, proceeded to lay down five more rounds of diamonds, and kept saying to West, "Hold that Queen," and to East, "Hold that King."

The position before the eleventh trick, with South retaining the lead, was as follows:

The diamond 2 was led, and the Declarer said to West: "Shall it be the Queen?"
West replied: "No. Not on your life. It's a club," and discarded the club 8.

Dummy then discarded the heart Ten, and the Declarer turned to East: "Shall it be the King?"

"Nothing doing," replied East. "It's a club."

"Thanks!" was South's report. He then led the club 4, and won with the Ace. The club 3 caught East's spade King and West's heart Queen, making the doubled Grand Slam.

Sometimes it seems to pay to expose an honour in dealing. Of course, as you undoubtedly

CHORUS GIRLS ARE "EASY ON EYES"

Marcus Show Director's Views On Beauty.

SCOFFS GEORGE WHITE'S "HERESY"

Loveliness—beauty of face and figure is the prime requisite in choosing the fair figurantes who adorn the Marcus Show commencing at the Queen's Theatre, June 10, Sunday matinee, for a short engagement. This is the emphatic declaration of A.B. Marcus, managing director of the big company.

Some time ago American newspapers published an alleged interview with George White, producer of the famous "Scandals." Now that Florenz Ziegfeld is no more, there is keen rivalry between Marcus, White and Earl Carroll of "Vanities" fame, as to which is the foremost impresario of the song-dance-and-girl type of entertainment on the Western Hemisphere.

In the White account, the producer was quoted as saying that the prime consideration in selecting choristers was ability to dance and sing, personal pulchritude being a secondary asset. At such heresy Mr. Marcus scoffs.

"Ninety-five per cent. of the reason for having a girl chorus is because they are easy on the eyes," declared Manager Marcus in a recent interview. "If a girl is beautiful and can also sing and dance with marked ability she quickly ceases to be one of the entourage and becomes principal."

"Most any girl can learn to dance, but only Mother Nature can make them beautiful," continued the showman. "I carry two dancing instructors for that purpose. A girl is put under a course of training. If in six months time she does not become a proficient dancer, we simply have her pose and look beautiful. When any show says that beauty is not the main reason for employing chorus girls he is simply trying to grab some free publicity in the press."

Executed For Crime On Same Day.

Jerusalem.
For the first time in Palestine four men have been executed for the same crime on the same day.

A dispute as to the ownership of some land ended in the murder of a prominent Moslem—and one of the murderers was his own brother.

Two of the condemned men went to the gallows in Jerusalem and other two at the Crusader fortress prison in Acre.—Reuter.

"Is this it?"
"Yes, sir. Well, I'd never been convinced by Jimmy that he was really growing. So when Mrs. Pike told me about the knife I started figuring. I figured that about five minutes before that knife came into play Jimmy must have found it, probably by accident."

"Why by accident?"
"Because Robel had gone a little crazy, I guess. He'd stolen it and kept it hidden from Jimmy. And when Jimmy found it he wondered what Robel had been doing with it. Then Robel wouldn't tell him and Jimmy found out for himself. Or maybe Robel did tell him. Anyway, Jimmy looked at the cane. It was the one he always carried. He saw where, when Jimmy wasn't looking, Robel had been cutting little pieces off the end of it."

know, the exposure of the spade King automatically made a misdeal; but as the point was waived by everyone, there is nothing in particular to say about it.

TURMOIL RAISED IN U.S. SOCIALIST PARTY

HEATED DEBATE OVER "DIRECT ACTION"

"LEFT" STRIKE DEMANDS
IN EVENT OF WAR
AMENDMENT TO STARTLING
RESOLUTIONS

DETROIT, YESTERDAY.

THE LEFT-WING OF THE AMERICAN SOCIALIST PARTY
CREATED A TURMOIL TO-DAY WHEN THEY TRIED TO COM-MIT THE PARTY TO A POLICY OF "DIRECT ACTION" WITH A DICTATORSHIP BY THE PROLETARIAT, AND THE REPUDI-ATION OF "BOURGEOIS DEMOCRACY."
THEIR RESOLUTIONS WERE FINALLY VOTED DOWN
AFTER A HEATED DEBATE BY A MAJORITY OF ONLY 513 IN A CARD VOTE OF 16,475.

The left-wing resolutions demanding a general strike in the event of war, in order to paralyse the military authorities, and to make a union with the Communists to seize power and to establish a revolutionary dictatorship, were amended on the suggestion of Mr. Norman Thomas the ex-Socialist candidate for the Presidency.

By this amendment the Socialists are not definitely bound to such tactics, but it is agreed that the extremist resolutions represent the attitude of the Socialist Party in America.

Their Majesties quietly celebrated the 24th. anniversary of their accession to the Throne at

Her Majesty Queen Mary celebrated her 67th. birthday on May

George V, the first of the House

The New York Times in a leading article states that it expects the message will cause disappointment, especially in England, and adds that apparently the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, had been looking for some lead from President Roosevelt.

He will now discover that the President is so tied down by law and public opinion here that he is unable to suggest a way out of the deadlock, which remains as tight as ever, the journal declares.

Sir Thomas Henley

FIRE BRIGADE AND AMBULANCE
UNDER ONE DEPARTMENT

The local administration of the Fire Brigade and Ambulance under one department is to be put forward as an illustration in support of his new scheme in Australia by Lt. Col. Sir Thomas Henley, K.B.E., M.P., of New South Wales, Australia, who passed through the Colony on the s.s.
Tanda yesterday on his return voyage to the Commonwealth.

Sir Thomas, who has advocated this system of operating the two services under one department for many years, was very interested in the local operation of these services and took detailed reports of local statistics dating since 1926.
He will use these to illustrate his views on the subject on his return to Australia.

Sir Thomas, who made an extended visit to Japan, was a member of the Hon. Mr. J. H. Latham's
"Good Will Tour." Mr. Latham, who is Acting Prime Minister of Australia, returned to Australia

"The American people are not disposed to place an impossible burden on debtors,
but nevertheless, it is a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet the debts."

"The re-payment of debts has gravely complicated our trade and

"Finland remains the only fore-payments punctually and fully."

"The American people will cerdebtors have to make of their
